What is Autonomic Response Testing & how do I certify as a qualified ART Practitioner?

Autonomic Response Testing (ART) is a biofeedback enhanced physical exam which uses changes in muscle tone as primary indicator. It produces the most reliable & consistent responses over other forms of muscle testing, going deeper into the matrix and intercellular levels.

It was developed by Dietrich Klinghardt, MD, PhD. ART is a comprehensive diagnostic system that has helped to transform many practices in the US and abroad into healing centers – and helped many practitioners to become accomplished holistic physicians and with Certification in ART on our Referral List of Preferred Practitioners. To certify, one must complete all 3 levels of ART & Protocol Workshop and pass a written & practical exam.

ART I & II are the Hands on Workshops in which the principles and skills of ART are taught: open & blocked regulation, switching, the 7 factors, the 5 levels of healing, the work with the signal enhancer and the polarization filter. ART III is the workshop where the system is put into practice, addressing most relevant and acute and chronic illnesses of our time: CFIDS, fibromyalgia, Lyme disease, autism, acute infections, trauma, PTSD, orthopedic problems, EMF sensitivity, sleeping disorders, MS, ALS, PD, AD and more.

Course Content and Knowledge for beginning Certification and to become proficient in ART I:

1. What a bio-field is and how we assess the health of a being with it.
2. Tools used in ART: examples: pol-filter, signal enhancers, lasers, and more.
3. Regulation of the body and what it means to your testing
4. Many forms of neurological and mental switching and what they mean to your testing.
5. How to scan the body for primary vs. secondary issues
